

Meet Your NADA Director and DEAC Chairman

NADA DIRECTOR / DEAC CHAIRMAN

DAVID L. COX

David L. Cox, Hare Chevrolet, Noblesville was selected in September 2007 to act as ADAI's National Automobile Dealers Association (NADA) Director and, most recently, in May 2010 to serve as ADAI's Dealers Election Action Committee (DEAC) Chairman as well.

Dave represents the fifth generation at the helm of 'the nation's oldest transportation company.' Hare Chevrolet sprang from W. Hare & Son, Inc. which began in 1847 building wagons and buggies. The company started selling automobiles in 1900 and became a Chevrolet dealership in 1921. Dave began working for the company as a parts runner while a student at Purdue University. He would eventually do every job in the dealership and purchased the dealership upon the death of his father-in-law. The company has expanded and now has an additional dealership located in Indianapolis run jointly by the sixth generation, Dave's daughters, Courtney and Monica.

Dave and his wife, Jacqueline Hare Cox, live in Noblesville and have four grandchildren.
